

Howard M. Groedel

Howard is Chair of the Business Department of Ulmer & Berne LLP, a full-service law firm with offices in Cleveland (where Howard is based), Columbus, Cincinnati, Chicago, New York City, Boca Raton and Washington D.C. Prior to joining Ulmer, Howard was a partner at Roetzel & Andress, LPA, a law firm with offices located throughout Ohio and Florida. Howard's prior experience includes stints at the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission in Washington D.C. and several law firms based in the nation's capital. Howard is a frequent speaker on securities law issues, and represents both private and public companies with respect to their securities compliance and governance matters.

Howard presently serves on the Board of Directors and Executive Committee of the Cleveland Institute of Art, where he chairs both the Audit and Development Committees. He is past Chapter President of the American Jewish Committee, an international human relations organization, and previously served as an officer and member of the board of trustees of Ingenuity of Cleveland, Y-Haven, The Cleveland Jewish News, ORT America and the Gross Schechter Day School of Cleveland. Howard is a Cleveland native and graduate of Miami University of Ohio and The George Washington University Law School in Washington, D.C. Howard and his wife Amy, a teaching specialist, have five grown children currently spread across the country.